

Rob't Ackerman, Ex-K. H. S. Pupil, Shot in Dutchess

Former Stone Ridge Resident Victim of Man Believed to Be Maniac, Who Takes Own Life

Football Player

Ackerman, W. H. S. Football Player, Given Transfusion at Poughkeepsie

Robert Ackerman, 18, a former student of Kingston High School and now of Wappingers Falls, lies critically wounded today in Vassar Hospital, Poughkeepsie, the victim of a gun fire by a man who Dutchess county authorities believe went suddenly insane.

The youth was shot by Edward Chapman, 53, who is described as an eccentric retired Matewan State Hospital attendant, who later took his own life after apparently attempting to kill the young man.

Lived at Stone Ridge

Insofar as could be learned here Ackerman formerly lived at Stone Ridge and attended Kingston High School until June of last year, when he was transferred to the Wappingers Falls High School. He is known as a popular athlete at the latter school and played center on a football team there.

Ackerman in a statement to the authorities after he was taken to the hospital said that he had walked passed the car in which Ackerman was seated near the village square during the noon recess yesterday. Something prompted him to look around, he said, and as he did so, Chapman, who, he said he recognized, but knew only slightly, pressed the gun in his back and fired.

No Motive Ascribed

District Attorney Schwartz of Dutchess county said that the shooting appears to be without motive and indicated the only theory to be advanced is that Chapman suddenly went insane.

Young Ackerman was reported in fair condition at the hospital. He was given a blood transfusion last night, and although his injuries are serious, it is believed there is a fair chance yet for his life.

Chapman, the youth said, shot at him twice, the first shot piercing his abdomen, and the second fired as he attempted to run down the street, went wild. After firing the second shot, Chapman then turned the gun to his temple and killed himself.

Almost Eye Witness

Officer Joseph Costa, of the Wappingers Falls police force, just missed being an eye witness to the shooting as he stood not far from where Chapman had parked his car. Hearing the shots he turned toward the direction from which the sound came and saw Chapman lying on the pavement.

The officer quickly put in a call for the Vassar Hospital ambulance and walked up the street where he saw a crowd gathered near where the youth had fallen on the street in front of his father's store. A call was sent for the coroner when it became apparent that Chapman was dead and the youth was rushed to the hospital.

Ackerman's Story

The story Ackerman told District Attorney Schwartz as he waited to be operated on is: "I came by the car and Mr. Chapman was bending over the car."

"He said to me: 'My car is back-'"

On Full Stomachs

World Supply of Wheat Is Now at Peak Sufficient to Feed Marching Armies

Chicago, March 22 (AP).—If European armies march to battle this year they can travel on full stomachs.

Seldom has the world had a larger supply of wheat, the principal international food commodity, and elaborate distributing machinery is ready to direct its flow into army cantonnements, barring blockades that thwart international trade in time of war.

From half a dozen important grain producing regions in both hemispheres, wheat is available to European importing nations at virtually the lowest prices in years. Governments are subsidizing world distribution in an effort to maintain prices for producers at home.

The availability of surplus wheat—an important factor in mapping military strategy in the war councils of Europe—explains in part the strange, lackadaisical behavior of the world's wheat markets in the face of recurring war scares, grain traders said today.

Defense Measure Starts on Its Way Through Congress

Bill Which Calls for 116 Millions Is Approved by Appropriations Committee of House

Equipment Need Money Is Ear-Marked to Give 'Critical' Supplies to U. S. Army

Washington, March 22 (AP).—Another integral part of President Roosevelt's emergency defense program—this one calling for $116,539,287—started through Congress today with approval of the House appropriations committee.

The money, earmarked to supply "critical" equipment needs of the army and to bolster seacoast defenses, was included in a deficiency appropriation bill carrying a total of $185,672,028 in direct appropriations and contractual authorizations.

Would Supply Shortages

In addition to the military funds, which supplement the $49,000,000 already approved by the House in the war department's regular appropriation for the coming fiscal year, the bill would make up shortages for a number of other governmental agencies.

The defense item would permit the army to buy more semi-automatic rifles, light and heavy artillery, tanks, anti-aircraft guns, gas masks and similar equipment, but the committee reported 67 per cent of the shortages in this field would still exist.

The committee slashed $27,962,903 from presidential recommendations dealt with in the bill but some of the reductions may be restored later.

One Of Largest Cuts

One of the largest single cuts was $7,500,000 recommended by President Roosevelt for training 20,000 civilian airplane pilots. The committee decided to defer action pending legislation authorizing the program, suggesting at the same time that the training would be "better and more economically accomplished if the matter were placed in the hands of the army" instead of the civil aeronautics authority, as proposed.

Despite warnings by officials of the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics that Germany is building better military planes than the United States and is far ahead in aviation research, the committee turned down a proposal for a huge research laboratory at Sunnyvale, Calif.

Approves Research

It approved an additional $2,140,000 for air research facilities at Langley Field, Va., but said it was unwilling to recommend a duplicate plant 3,000 miles away.

Without changing the committee recommended $16,070,425 in items requested by the Treasury Department, including $10,250,000 for payments to federal land banks on account of congressional reduction of the interest rate on mortgages; $3,800,000 for refunding internal revenue collections and $1,555,000 for the coast guard to rehabilitate stations damaged or destroyed by the New England hurricane last fall.

The committee also approved the navy's request for $36,700,000 to carry on the shipbuilding program authorized last year.

Other items in the bill include $2,490,000 for the forest service to fight fires; $1,000,000 for irrigation systems on Indian reservations and $2,000,000 for the United States Employees' Compensation Commission.

AFL Council Gathers

Washington, March 22 (AP).—The AFL executive council gathered today for an extraordinary session to determine the jurisdictional conditions under which the CIO "rebels" might be re-admitted to the Federation. President William Green asked the council to decide whether the one-time AFL unions must surrender, before returning to the Federation, the broader scope of membership they acquired for themselves in three years of the labor war.

Former Tannersville Violin Pupil, Dixie Davis Faces Pecora for Policy Racket Sentence

New York, March 22 (AP).—This is judgment day for Dutch Schultz's "Sonny Boy," J. Richard (Dixie) Davis, the church violinist and college graduate who became an underworld prince.

Yet, although he must stand before the bar of justice today for sentence, Davis hopes within 24 hours to be honeymooning with Hope Dare, his red-haired sweetheart, a former showgirl.

Whatever the sentence, Hope has declared they will be married at once. She has borrowed a new dress and, if he is freed, she said, they will leave the country.

Both Davis and Big Harry Schoenhaus, a post office clerk who graduated to keeping the books of Schultz's multi-million-dollar policy racket, are scheduled to be sentenced by Supreme Court Justice Ferdinand Pecora.

Hitler Wrests Memel From Lithuania As Duce Bids French Reconciliation; British Say Fuehrer Used Force Threat

Sir Samuel Hoare Says Demands for Memel Were Based on Gain Through Arms

Military Talks

British Government Said to Be Holding Conferences With Attaches

London, March 22 (AP).—The British government said Germany had threatened little Lithuania with action "in a military sense" if she refused to surrender Memel to her today.

In response to a question in the House of Commons, Sir Samuel Hoare, home secretary, substituting for Prime Minister Chamberlain, said:

Military Sense

"The Lithuanian minister for foreign affairs, who was recently in Berlin, received while there, demands of the German government for immediate cession of Memel and to the Reich, coupled with a threat that in the event of resistance or appeal for support elsewhere, the matter would be dealt with not diplomatically but in a military sense."

Previously Sir Samuel had told the House that the government was considering calling a special meeting of the League of Nations to consider Germany's rapid expansion, continued today by the absorption of Memel, yielded by Lithuania.

Staff Conferences

The government whip, Patrick Murray, disclosed that Britain is conducting military staff talks, through military attaches, with France, Soviet Russia, Denmark, Sweden, Yugoslavia, Rumania, Turkey, Greece and the Netherlands.

Murray answered "no" to a question by Laborite Josiah Wedgwood whether "economic and military staff talks will be initiated with the United States concerning supply they could make to this country and our allies in case of war being forced upon us."

Wedgwood followed with a further question.

"May I ask whether this also is an example of the inability of the government to face the situation and may I ask why no arrangements are being come to with America in connection with supplies for the next war?"

Murray replied "that is another question."

Dealing with the German threat to Lithuania, Sir Samuel said that the Lithuanian government "were told that if they accepted the ultimatum no further demands would be made."

At this statement opposition members broke into laughter. The home secretary continued:

"The Lithuanian government did not communicate with the British government."

"The Lithuanian government were required to make a decision within four days. . . ."

"At the same time I would wish to say that we have no official information on this subject from the Lithuanian government or any other source. Therefore I think I had better not be drawn into further details before we have a report."

Replying to questions on Rumania, Sir Samuel said "the Rumanian government have officially denied that there has been any ultimatum from the German government."

"At the same time the uncertainty of the present situation is causing the Rumanian government to take certain precautionary measures."

Hoare declined to reply when Geoffrey L. Mander, opposition liberal, asked, "are not these ultimatum always denied officially until occupation of territory has taken place?"

Neutrality Hearings Urged

Pittman Asks Senate Foreign Relations Committee to Order Prompt Hearings on Proposals to Change United States Neutrality Law

Washington, March 22 (AP).—Chairman Pittman (D-Nev) asked the senate foreign relations committee today to order prompt hearings on proposals to change the neutrality law.

"The situation today in Europe and in Asia, in my opinion, demands that we decide on our policy before there may be a general war," Pittman said. "Any government establishing a policy after war breaks out, if it changes the existing situation, is charged with being unneutral."

Pittman's view that there must be early action on neutrality legislation, if any change is to be made, was said to reflect administration opinion.

Action has been held up on all neutrality bills under a motion by Senator Johnson (R-Calif) providing that no hearings could be fixed until the committee ordered them by a majority vote.

Another war time proposal was submitted yesterday when Senator Bone (D-Wash) introduced a bill, signed by 50 senators, to "take all the profits out of war." It would impose greatly increased tax rates in event of a conflict. Exemptions would be lowered and surtaxes in the highest brackets would range up to 93 per cent for individuals. Corporations would be taxed 100 per cent on net incomes in excess of six per cent of their adjusted declared value.

Meanwhile, President Roosevelt said he was not happy over developments in central Europe. He declined at his press conference yesterday to comment on the situation, however.

Assembly Passes Conway Land Bill

Albany, March 22, (Special).—Assemblyman J. Edward Conway's bill amending the New York City Administrative Code relative to acquiring lands for water works purposes passed the Assembly this morning.

The Conway bill provides for larger initial payments to property owners when the city takes over land for water works purposes; another provision is that commissioners of appraisal are not eligible for reappointment.

The bill now goes to the Senate.

Dunnigan Is Held On Theft Charge

Highland Resident Alleged to Have Taken Goods He Reports as Stolen

Frank Dunnigan of Oakes, Highland, was held in $500 bail Tuesday by Justice of the Peace Walter R. Seaman of Highland for a hearing Thursday morning at 10 o'clock on a grand larceny, second degree, charge. Unable to supply the bail Dunnigan was brought to jail.

Sergeant E. J. Hulse of Highland and Trooper John Metzger of the B. C. L. picked up Dunnigan on complaint of a Binghamton specialty company, which claimed that Dunnigan had made away with a quantity of merchandise which he had in charge to sell.

Employed by the Binghamton firm as a salesman of rugs, draperies, lines, etc., merchandise valued around $250 to $300 allegedly is missing. Sergeant Hulse was notified some time ago that the truck which Dunnigan drove had been robbed of merchandise. The officers claim that they made an investigation and found no evidence of the truck being broken into and the B. C. L. men continued the investigation with the result that Dunnigan was apprehended.

It is alleged that when Dunnigan reported to his superior his truck had been rifled, the police took up an investigation which eventually led to an inspection of his sales records and a check-up on his customer list. Some of the places where sales were alleged to have been made it was found were vacant and no sales had been made. On the theory that the robbery was reported to cover shortages, a warrant was sworn out and Dunnigan was picked up Tuesday and arraigned before Judge Seaman. He pleaded not guilty and asked for a hearing later. The case has been under investigation since early this month by Sergeant Hulse and the B. C. L.

Congress Afraid Little Is Left

What With States Knocking Off Easy Taxes, There Is Nothing to Grab

Washington, March 22 (AP).—Members of congressional committees which spend their days and nights hunting new taxes are complaining that the states have knocked off most of the best looking levies in sight.

They do not want to reduce the total income of the federal government, but at the same time they are trying to see whether they can lighten the burden on business. If a new, easy source of revenue were handy, Congress would grab it.

But the states are taxing nearly everything usable. Experts list at least 20 different kinds of state business taxes, a few of them similar to federal levies. Two-thirds of the states, for instance, have corporation taxes based on net income.

Eleven states tax bank deposits, 18 tax mutual savings banks, 12 levy on the income of national and state banks, 20 tax the shares of banks and trust companies, nine collect on the recording and registration of mortgages and bonds.

All the states tax mutual building and loan associations. All but West Virginia tax the organization and entrance of a corporation into business.

Twenty-four states have a chain store tax. Four tax public utility concerns according to the amount of power they produce or sell. All states tax utilities, fire and life insurance companies, motor vehicles, and common carriers. All have intangible property taxes, reaching out for stocks and bonds or the income from them. Five states tax security transfers.

German Leader Leaves on Battleship to Visit His Latest Conquest; Tension Mounts

'Time Is Ripe'

Close Friend of Mussolini Goes to Paris Today With Terms

(By The Associated Press)

Adolf Hitler today wrested Memel from Lithuania amid mounting European tension and left Berlin for a battleship journey to his new conquest, which Britain charged was made through a threat of armed force.

A personal report that the time was ripe for French-Italian reconciliation was delivered to the French government today, an authoritative source said, by a close friend of Premier Mussolini.

Confers With de Monzie

The friend, Hubert LaGardelle, an influential French resident of Rome, conferred with Public Works Minister Anatole de Monzie immediately after coming to Paris on a mission he sought to keep secret.

The visitor gave the minister private information on the Italian situation and, friends said, reviewed Mussolini's position and Italian public opinion.

LaGardelle was said to have urged early overtures by Paris for negotiations with Rome. It was indicated that Berlin threatened to occupy all Lithuania if she did not yield.

Lithuania Yields

Tiny Lithuania yielded to Nazi pressure by ceding the Memel territory bordering Germany's northeastern frontier along the Baltic.

Hitler added 1,099 square miles with a predominantly Germanic population of 150,000 to his expanding empire, which was swollen exactly a week ago by the absorption of Czechoslovakia and a year ago by annexation of Austria.

Lithuania lost her principal port and a territory increasingly troublesome since Nazi ideology filtered across the East Prussian frontier agitating for return of the region, separated from Germany in the post-war settlement.

Jews and anti-Nazis fled as storm troopers and German citizens marched across the frontier. Three Lithuanian ministers headed for Berlin to settle final details of the annexation.

In Face of Criticism

Germany's newest advance came in the face of increasing criticism from abroad but along with a new expression of solidarity from fascist Italy.

Premier Mussolini in effect warned other nations that any joint action to check the Rome-Berlin axis might incur the risk of war. His Fascist grand council, after a late meeting last night, reaffirmed adherence to the axis and declared that the "united front of democracies" "is not the harbinger of peace but of war."

With additional military reserves manning the French fortifications facing Germany, France pushed a vigorous campaign to

Weir Asks Reserve

Master Would Stop Scrap Shipments in Order That Supply Could Grow

Pittsburgh, March 22 (AP).—Steelmaster Ernest T. Weir declared today he believed America should halt the exporting of steel scrap until "such a time as we have built up reserves of this basic raw material to meet any emergency."

Weir said he personally did not feel America was threatened by war, but that he thought in view of "almost daily alarming reports" the nation should take a survey of the situation and be prepared. The chairman of the $207,000,000 National Steel Corporation, which now is the country's fifth largest producer, recalled that after America entered the World War a shortage of scrap seriously handicapped the industry.

Scrap steel can be quickly re-melted and re-rolled into any form of steel, whereas in the production of steel from pig iron it is necessary to use manganese, a product that must be imported.

"I am certain Germany, or any other European nation, under existing conditions, would not permit the export of a pound of scrap steel," said Weir, "yet we have been sending it abroad by hundreds of shiploads."

State Federation Of Labor Favors Civil Service Bill

Senator Arthur H. Wicks, chairman of the committee on public service, has forwarded the following letter to The Freeman:

March 20, 1939

Senator Arthur Wicks
 Senate Chamber
 Albany, New York

Dear Sen. Wicks:

This will acknowledge your letter of March 16th asking for a statement of the New York State Federation of Labor's position in regard to your Introductory 6—Print 1011.

The New York State Federation of Labor has always been wholeheartedly in favor of civil service. The State Federation last fall endorsed a constitutional amendment calling for transit unification, and the people followed labor's recommendation. If transit facilities are to be operated by municipal governments in any part of the state it is obvious that transit employees are entitled to the full benefits that come with public employment, just as police and firemen are now enjoying under civil service laws. There is no more reason for municipal transit employees to be made the victims of a political spoils system, than there is for any other class of public employees. All should receive equal treatment under civil service protection. Legislation to bring this about has the wholehearted support of the New York State Federation of Labor.

In addition organized labor is interested in protecting the jobs of all those employed on transit facilities which might in the future be taken over by municipalities in any part of the state.

Your bill is completely in harmony with the policies and principles of the New York State Federation of Labor on the very important question of public employment under civil service.

Very sincerely yours,
 (Signed) GEORGE MEANY

Old Mountie Tells Of Early Campaign

Last of Original Troop Is Living in London.

LONDON.—A man who was one of the original "mounties" who established law and order in the wild northwest territories of the Nineteenth century Canada has been found living in London.

He is James H. Fullwood, 88 years old, who believes that as ex-trooper 100 he is the only surviving member of the three troops of the newly formed Northwest Mounted Police, which on June 13, 1874, crossed the United States border into Alberta.

They went to exterminate the Montana "bad men" who were robbing and murdering them and preying on the few white settlers scattered through the territory.

So widespread had their activities become that they were endangering the peace of the dominion.

The "mounties" had orders to suppress them at any cost.

"We finally moved them off from Fargo, N. D., in a column two miles long—horses and men, cattle, farm implements and Red River carts which you could hear squeaking a mile off," Fullwood said.

"We were making for Edmonton, Alta., at the foot of the Rockies, which we had to patrol. It was a hard trip of well over a thousand miles. It took us under five months."

"It was especially hard on the horses and cattle. Forage was scarce and grazing generally nonexistent. Yet day after day our horses covered 50 miles. Long before we made camp at night the men were leading them."

"About halfway along our trail we had to establish a 'crippled camp' for men and horses. Shortly after that the main body, which carried on, had plenty of meat for the first time. We were in buffalo country."

"Our Colonel Macleod established his post in the Porcupine Hills. It was the first post ever built by the new police, and I helped with the construction. Today it is the town of Macleod."

"We had little trouble with the Indians. They soon realized that we were there to protect them and they became our allies in our fights with the criminals."

"We heard a lot of popping and rumbling," 12-year-old Ivan Thompson and Francis Rasmussen said. "We looked up and saw the hill was gone—the one we used to hunt rabbits on."

Affecting an area equal to two city blocks, one corner of the perambulating pasture slid far enough to almost dam the river. After the 50-foot drop the surface of the pasture was folded like an accordion and was stratified with large cracks except around the area of the pond.

Geologists Are Puzzled By Earth Slide in Idaho

PRESTON, IDAHO.—Geologists were puzzled over the gigantic earth slide that moved 2,000,000 tons of earth and shifted a 25-acre farm pasture 50 feet into the Bear river. A large icy-covered pond on the plot of ground affected by the slide was not disturbed. Not even a crack in the ice showed. Cattle grazing on the sliding terrain scrambled to safety as their pasture began to move.

Two small boys skating on a nearby slough witnessed the phenomenon.

Will Explore Submerged City in Caribbean Sea

DETROIT.—Plans for a 100-day expedition to photograph the "sunk city" of St. James, off the Island of St. Christopher, are virtually complete.

Robert Hall, 38-year-old Detroit and wealthy soldier-of-fortune, will head a 25-man expedition to the coast of the Caribbean island. Included in the party are professional men and four university students.

Purpose of the Caribbean expedition, according to Hall, is to photograph the ruins of the city of St. James, which was destroyed by volcanic eruption in 1630 and has since defied photographers. The city lies under water.

Hall's expedition will carry diving equipment and underwater cameras. Since all attempts to photograph it from the surface have failed, Hall hopes to attack it from the ocean floor. Two professional divers are members of the expedition.

Only 54 of 207 Pupils Identify Stalk of Wheat

CHICAGO.—The word wheat is commonplace. Everyone knows what wheat is used for. Bread is made from wheat.

But when 207 sixth, seventh, and eighth grade pupils at the Mozart elementary school were shown a stalk of wheat, only 54 named it correctly. Charles P. Saunders, principal of the school, said the test was made at the suggestion of Miss Nellie F. Ryan, a district school superintendent.

Out of the 207 pupils, 100 admitted they didn't know; 27 said oats, 3 thought the stalk was rye, 5 barley, 1 corn, and 1 bearded wheat. One youngster looked at the stalk and told Mr. Saunders he thought it was a corn cob.

Shell Crusade For Safe Driving

Dealers and employees of the Shell Union Oil Corporation from Kingston and vicinity heard the company's 1939 sales promotion and advertising plans outlined at a dinner and meeting held last night at the Elks Club in Poughkeepsie.

The meeting, conducted by William A. Shoemaker, local Shell manager, was one of 20 dinners and meetings being held by the company in upstate New York to acquaint its dealers and personnel with this year's advertising and merchandising plans.

Gordon H. Atkinson, New York division sales manager, outlined the 1939 promotion plans. The advertising program was presented by a technicolor motion picture in which Don Wilson, famous radio announcer, played a leading role. This year's newspaper campaign, advertising copy to appear in national magazines and a number of outdoor posters for use this summer were dramatized and animated in the film.

A coast to coast crusade for safe driving will be the outstanding feature in Shell's 1939 advertising program. Through a campaign for courtesy on the road, the company hopes to do its part in reducing the nation's motorist fatalities. Dr. Miller McClintock, director of traffic research at Yale University, played an important part in formulating the courtesy crusade.

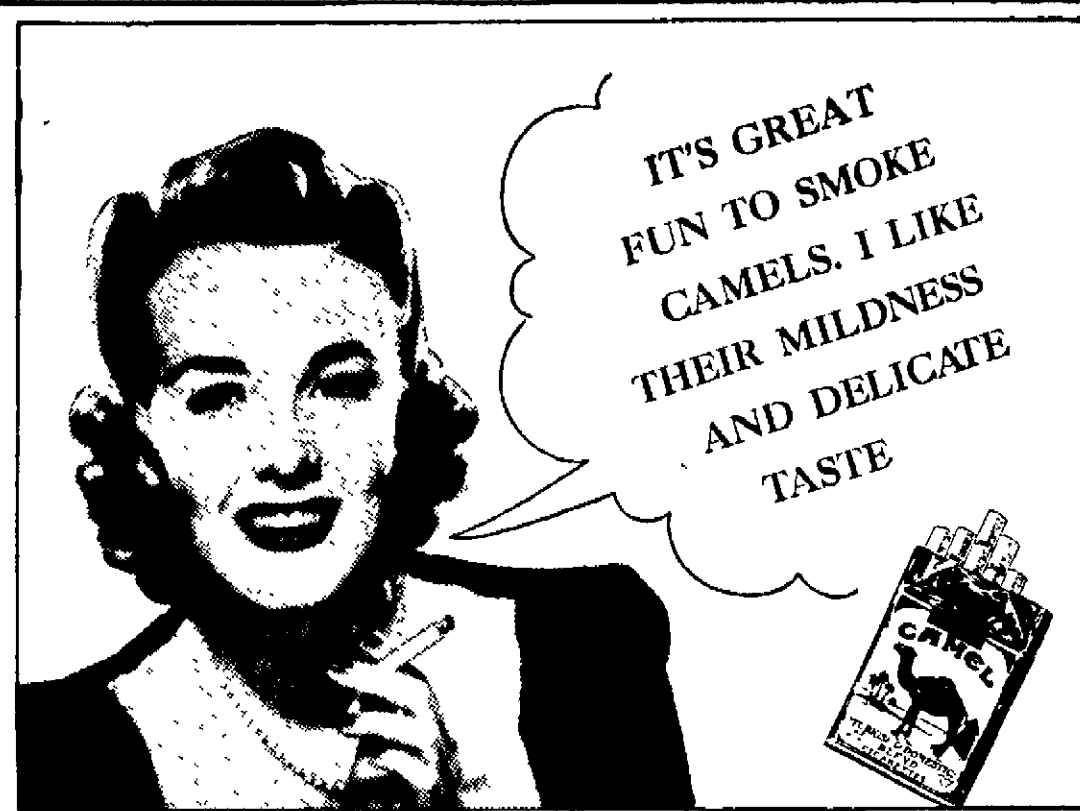

To supplement the newspaper program, full page advertisements are to appear in the leading national magazines. Outdoor advertising is to be confined to "Shell Service Ahead" posters, calling the motorists' attention to representative stations along the highways.

"How's About It," a full length sound motion picture produced in Hollywood for Shell, was shown following a discussion of the advertising plans. Proper service station operation was woven into the plot to make it educational as well as entertaining for the dealers.

Tony may look blank when you mention "media-emotional copy-layout," but ask him how to sell Fruit, and man!—you're talking to an expert! He's been doing it for years, and what he knows about selling has been learned from experience.

Ask Tony where he sells his fruit, and he'll answer, "I just follow the crowds!" There you have Tony's secret of success. He doesn't park his cart on a quiet street. Not Tony! You'll find him where you find the crowds. Maybe you don't sell Fruit, like Tony does. But if you're in business—and you want to sell more than you do—"follow the crowds" by advertising in the Freeman.

RELIGIOUS REVIVAL

After a period of careless living, lost faith and widespread "ungodliness," and even while many churches remain almost empty, there seems to be a strong trend back to religion.

This trend, which might be called a revival of interest in religion rather than a renewal of religious fervor, is said to be especially noticeable in young people. The chaplain of a big American university said recently that college chapel services are better attended now than at any time within his long experience. Wherever he goes around the country, he finds students crowding into the religious services. The grown-ups are not so much interested. The young people, though not "pious" in the old sense, seem eager to find "what religion is about" and what it can do for them.

Along this line a statement by Dr. Henry C. Link, printed in a current series of newspaper articles, is impressive. He says that he has rediscovered religion.

"My return to religion," he explains, "is not important, but the discoveries of scientific psychology which influenced me. In spite of the great benefits which the physical sciences have bestowed on mankind—a longer life, a more comfortable home, a life more free from physical pains, and a life filled with an infinite variety of interesting objects and educational experiences, there is no evidence that individuals are happier, that families are more united, that governments or political bodies are wiser, or that nations are less likely to go to war."

He finds in revived religion something to supply these needs. He regards religion "not as the refuge of the weak, but the weapon of those who would be strong; as an aggressive mode of life by which the individual becomes the master of his environment, not its complacent victim."

RADIO GUN-PLAY

A newspaper reader who thinks something should be done about exciting juvenile radio broadcasts tells this story:

His five-year-old grandson, coming to visit him, suddenly realized that he had never seen his grandfather, and asked where she was. The grandfather told him that she had died some years ago.

"Who shot her?" the boy asked. From the wild radio gunplay he had listened to, the child had got the idea that shooting people was a normal affair.

The columnist who reports the case is convinced, from the experience of his own children, that what he calls "incendiary radio programs" are very bad, because they get children so excited and give them such false ideas and standards. If not only hurts children, he says, but makes life miserable for their parents. And in expressing such criticism, he learns from the readers' response that parents are overwhelmingly with him.

The radio people who appear to be jangling the nerves and perverting the behavior standards of thousands of young people probably do not realize the trouble they are causing. If the parents and educators are right, wild juvenile broadcasts are nerve-wreckers and public nuisances instead of being "good clean fun."

RAILROAD IMPROVEMENT

Some have thought that our railroads were doomed to disappear, driven out by all-conquering automobiles, trucks and busses. But that was a rash conclusion. Rails are found to be better than rubber and concrete for heavy and bulky hauling particularly and they still have their uses for minor freight and passenger traffic. So, instead of letting them die of neglect and obsolescence, owners and public and government are planning to revive and modernize them.

According to a report of the Interstate Commerce Commission, the Class I railroads propose to spend about $717,000,000 on maintenance, improvements and extensions in the next three years. Much of this work, already overdue, has been postponed for lack of funds. The bulk of the money would go to make handling of traffic more cheap and efficient, thus holding and regaining business.

This should be at the same time a boost for

The railroad industry, for general employment and for business revival.

DISARMAMENT LATER

According to a recent poll, the public is not interested in an early disarmament conference. The hint that Prime Minister Chamberlain might call one for the coming summer was coolly received.

The majority of voters have suffered "progressive disillusionment with the principle of disarmament." They seem to think it was tried once and failed so badly that there isn't any sense in trying it again, particularly now.

The public is probably right about this, although few people think the matter through. Disarmament was tried, but halfheartedly. It failed because it was not supported by the social and economic measures which are essential to domestic and international prosperity and peace. We have learned that war cannot be ended by disarmament, so long as warlike attitudes and rivalries persist, and so long as any nation or racial group seeks to dominate another and to profit by its prostration.

Military disarmament will be a result, perhaps, not a forerunner, of world peace and cooperation.

Ideological termites are always getting into wooden heads.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

By James W. Barton, M.D.

WARTS ON SOLE OF FOOT

I have spoken before of those painful flat growths on the sole of the foot called plaster warts. As they receive the whole weight of the body in walking, relief is often obtained by special wide shoes or special cushions with a hole in the center which surrounds the wart and thus takes the pressure off it.

Just what causes these warts is unknown although it is believed that many cases are due to infection. Some of these warts disappear apparently without treatment and others seem to resist all forms of treatment except surgery.

Fortunately the use of wide shoes, a felt or cork cushion with central hole, and the use of some of the ordinary corn cures containing salicylic acid, give excellent results, in most cases.

As there are some cases that are difficult to cure, it is gratifying to know that X-rays, now used in so many skin ailments, is curing a number of these stubborn cases.

Drs. W. C. Popp and J. W. Olds, Rochester, Minn., in Radiology record their investigation of the effect of X-ray treatment of 91 cases of plantar warts. These patients came from a distance and the study was made with the thought in mind of finding out just how many could be cured with but one treatment. This would save time and expense for these patients and perhaps show how many treatments might be necessary in more stubborn cases.

In 54 cases there was but one wart and in 37 cases there were two or more. Forty-eight patients obtained complete cure, whereas eighteen received no benefit.

In 40 of the 55 cured cases the wart or warts disappeared after one treatment; 11 required two treatments, 5 required three treatments and 2 were cured only after five treatments.

The fact that 13 received no benefit from X-ray treatment did not mean that they could not be cured or relieved as a follow-up of these 13 patients showed that treatment elsewhere had resulted in 6 being cured, 6 relieved of pain, and 1 got partial relief from pain.

From the above results Drs. Popp and Olds are justified in stating that "early observations show that their technique—method and dosage of X-ray treatment—may offer better curative results than other techniques."

Nine Health Booklets

Nine health booklets by Dr. Barton are now available. They may be obtained by sending ten cents for each booklet desired to The Bell Library, 247 West 43rd street, New York, N. Y., mentioning the name of The Kingston Daily Freeman. The booklets are: (No. 101) Eating Your Way to Health; (No. 102) Why Worry About Your Heart?; (No. 103) Neuritis; (No. 104) The Common Cold; (No. 105) Overweight and Underweight; (No. 106) Food Allergy or Sensitiveness; (No. 107) Scourge (gonorrhea and syphilis); (No. 108) How Is Your Blood Pressure?; (No. 109) Chronic Rheumatism or Arthritis.

Death of Mrs. Samuel D. Gibson of Pearl street. Board of Public Works discussed the necessity of installing street signs, as many of the city streets were unmarked.

March 22, 1929.—Board of Education moves to build addition to Kingston High School.

Raymond Donald Winnie, 61 Grace street, injured when car driven by his father, Russell Winnie, collided with rear of a junk wagon.

Harry Krom, who boasted of being Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's first flying instructor, enroute to inspect planes at Ford's Detroit plant, visited at the home of George Johnston in St. Remy.

St. Petersburg, Fla., (AP)—Beach society critics this winter have decided that about the last spare inch of material had been shorn from midday's bathing costume with removal of the shoulder straps. In the place of the conventional straps, a contrivance of rubber elastic tape strung through the upper pleating holds up the top part of the suits. Wearers generally appear to be pleased with the strapless outfits, especially for sun bathing. No unsightly white line is left over each shoulder and the coat of suntan is general and even for display with evening clothes.

St. Louis, Mo., (AP)—Missouri duck hunters want the privilege of making ducks comfortable when they migrate through Missouri; they would like to feed them so the ducks will sit down, relax, eat, take things easy—and be shot. Such was the hunters' request sent recently by the Missouri Duck Hunters' Association to game officials. The hunters said the game restrictions that prohibit feeding and the use of decoys have just about taken all the ducks out of duck shooting.

Omaha, Neb., (AP)—A witness in District Judge Herbert Rhodes' court testified he heard the two principals in a divorce action quarrel over a card game. The judge exclaimed: "My wife makes me mad lots of times when I want her to finesse a queen and she plays her ace, but that isn't grounds for divorce."

HIGHLAND NEWS

Highland, March 21.—Mrs. Irving Rathgeb assumed her new duties as president of Chapter A. P. E. O. Sisterhood at the meeting Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. LeGrand Haviland, Sr., when the chapter observed the 40th anniversary of the organization. This was the first chapter to be organized in the east and was brought here by Mrs. Harcourt J. Pratt, who became a member while visiting at her home in Humiston, Iowa. The chapter was organized at the home of the late Mrs. Charles E. Browning with Mrs. John C. Feeter, Miss Laura M. Tillson, Mrs. Brown, Miss Mollie E. Elmore, Mrs. Pratt, Mrs. Byron Lane, Mrs. A. P. Willcox, Mrs. Philip Schantz, Mrs. S. G. Carpenter as the charter members. The Sisterhood was first organized in January, 1899, by several girls at Wesleyan College, Mt. Pleasant, Iowa. At present there are 28 states with state organizations, 15 states that are still subordinate to supreme chapter, besides chapters in the territory of Hawaii, provinces of Manitoba and Ontario, Canada; the District of Columbia and British Columbia.

Mrs. Pratt was present Thursday and many reminiscences of the early days were enjoyed. Members who had joined within the first few years and were present were Mrs. Jane Clarke, Miss Lula Clarke, Mrs. Wilbur Haviland, Mrs. D. H. Starr, Miss Bertha Wisemiller and Miss Eliza Raymond. At the close of the meeting Mrs. Pratt and Mrs. Rathgeb poured in the dining room at a decorated table with a two-tiered birthday cake iced in yellow and with a centerpiece of white sweet peas, the colors of the Sisterhood.

Present were Mrs. John Batten, Mrs. Edmond Carpenter, Mrs. C. B. Carpenter, Mrs. Clarke, Miss Clarke, Mrs. Robert Cole, Mrs. Harry Colyer, Mrs. M. B. Dunlop, Miss Laura Harcourt, Mrs. LeG. Haviland, Mrs. W. J. Haviland, Mrs. D. S. Haynes, Mrs. M. S. Hazen, Mrs. A. W. Lent, Miss Emily Lent, Mrs. A. B. Merritt, Mrs. A. J. Pratt, Mrs. H. J. Pratt, Mrs. C. W. Rathgeb, Mrs. I. R. Rathgeb, Mrs. Rose Seaman, Mrs. Starr, Mrs. Ole Sundstrom, Mrs. John F. Wadlin, Mrs. Gordon Wilcox, Miss Wisemiller, Mrs. J. C. Wygant, Jr., and Mrs. Elsie Randall, who now belongs to a chapter in Philadelphia, and Miss Eliza Raymond, who organized Chapter D in Ravenna. The meeting on April 6 will be at the home of Mrs. Howard E. Wilcox, with Miss Wisemiller assisting hostess.

Philatelic Society

Highland, March 21.—The Mid-Hudson Philatelic Society meets this evening with the president, Miss Margaret Cook. The entertainment is arranged by Mrs. Clyde Matthews.

43rd Birthday

Highland, March 21.—Final plans for the celebration of the 43rd birthday of the U. D. Society was made at the meeting Saturday afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. J. Ennis. Everyone who has been affiliated with the society is invited to be present on April 1 at the Stone House at a 1 o'clock luncheon, and everyone attending is asked to come in costume. Mrs. D. H. Starr presided. The committee with Mrs. Charles Champlin, Mrs. Alfred Lane, Mrs. A. W. Williams and Miss Bertha Wisemiller are arranging the entertainment. Aside from Mrs. Starr those present were Mr. and Mrs. William Waterbury, Mrs. S. D. Farnham, Mrs. Mabel Hasbrouck, Mrs. A. W. Williams, Mrs. Franklin Welker, Mrs. Alfred Lane, Mrs. Champlin, Mrs. Ennis, Mrs. Howard Wilcox, the Misses Laura Harcourt, Bertha Wisemiller, Belle Brinckerhoff, Eliza Raymond.

Principal Campbell Accepts

Highland, March 21.—At a meeting of the Trustees of the Centralized school district held on February 15 by a majority vote the contract for the year 1939 and 1940 was offered the principal, A. Recovery Made Exceedingly Difficult, If Not Impossible, Under the Payroll Tax System

By DAVID LAWRENCE

(Copyright, 1939)

Washington, March 22.—What's the matter with business in America? Many answers to this question are being made, but it is surprising how little legislators here know of the most cancerous growth that has become imbedded in the economic system—namely, the payroll taxes.

Latest figures compiled show that business in 1929, when the national income was at an unprecedented height, namely $80,000,000,000, paid much less in taxes than today. Certainly, a tax load of nearly twice the size of 1929 can hardly be justified in depressed years as making economic sense.

The corporation income tax is based on capacity to pay. Hence it is natural that, in 1929, the business corporations of America should be found paying $1,235,733,256, whereas, in the last fiscal year, with the higher tax rates, the corporation income tax yielded $26,000,000. This might be a proper relationship between 1929 and 1939 in the corporation income tax was the only levy that had to be paid. For, in 1929, there was no payroll tax, whereas today American business pays an added $1,198,175,000, and this does not include any of the employee contributions.

If the payroll tax paid by employers is added to the corporation income tax, it will be found that the total tax paid by American business amounted in the last year to $2,124,175,000, which is the biggest total direct tax ever paid by the corporations, and it amounts to nearly twice the total amount paid in 1929.

How can American business, with a depression volume of sales, pay almost twice as much as it was taxed in 1929 and survive? This question is being answered with thousands of failures on the part of small corporations, which, in turn, increases the total unemployment rolls.

Although the federal government collects these vast sums annually from payrolls, it expends only about one-fourth for social security purposes. The same social security can be attained by meeting the expenses out of general taxation. In other words, by paying somewhere between $350,000,000 and $400,000,000 a year out of general tax receipts, collected from those with a capacity to pay, business would be spared a prodigious thousands of little businesses could be freed from the crushing burden of the payroll taxes, which must be paid irrespective of whether a business is in the red or the black.

One of the most vicious effects of the payroll tax is that, while in businesses manufacturing tangible articles, the tax can be passed on. There are innumerable service businesses operating on fixed income or commission bases which cannot increase their income to take care of the taxes. Also many small businesses operating with eight employees or less are exempt, and they hesitate to expand because they must then pay social security taxes. In other words, the payroll taxes operate as a preventive of employment.

The tax load carried by American business today, in respect to those companies which can pass it on in whole or in part, merely means higher costs to some of those in the manufacturing industries, for instance, who are already handicapped because they cannot compete with plants having better equipment. The large businesses, therefore, possess an advantage over their smaller competitors. This is one of the forms of involuntary concentration of capital and business volume which the payroll tax induces.

The payroll tax system started in 1936 with 1 per cent levied on payrolls, but it was not until 1937, when the tax was increased to 2 per cent, that business began to feel the effects of the strain. Again, in 1938, there was an increase of another 1 per cent, so that today the total tax on employers totals 4 per cent of their payroll figured in dollars. If this were a profit tax, it would be understandable, but there is absolutely no relationship between a total payroll and capacity to pay because the higher the wages an employer pays to his workers, the more taxes he has to pay. Union labor has little to gain from a system which penalizes the employer for putting on more workers.

The next most important fact about the payroll taxes is that American business hasn't yet felt the full effects of the rates, because, under existing law, the rates are scheduled to rise to 6 per cent, and, in addition to this, the workers themselves must pay 3 per cent, so that finally 9 per cent of American payrolls will go for unemployment, insurance and old age pensions, which could be sustained much more inexpensively out of general taxation and accomplished the same purpose. To compound the payroll taxes means such a staggering exaction that it is doubtful whether American industry can bear the load. Certainly, economic recovery has been made exceedingly difficult, if not impossible, under the payroll tax system.

KRUMVILLE

Chapter 15

News Is News

GENERAL Philbrick, who managed to look as though he had on a full dress uniform even when he wore a white flannel suit, was waiting with Jeff and Sara for the fireworks to begin.

"And I hope," he said to Asey after greeting him effusively, "that you'll find time to say a few words to our radio audience before the week is out. We want you. I know you're glad to hear the preliminary reports on our program have been most favorable, and the evening papers gave us fine publicity. Splendid. Now, you have a large following, and people are interested in you and your work, and Mr. Tripp wants to—"

"That's real nice of you Mr. Tripp," Asey said. "You—er—think this is going to help your business?"

"No question about it, no question about it at all. The American people have a wonderful curiosity about the habit of—perhaps I should say, grown out of the habit—of using fireworks of the ornamental type at their—"

"Oh, but the fire," Eloise Randall interrupted. "I mean, I do think they're pretty, and so colorful—but so dangerous, don't you think? I remember torpedoes—of course you can hardly see the scar on my finger now, but that was a long time ago. Then Cousin Dorothy's boy—when he was younger, of course. He's an engineer now, and really doing quite well in spite of the depression—so hard for young people, don't you think? Like Jane, and—well, Gerald would have been a firecracker—of course we tried to dissuade him, but he was a very firm-willed fellow, always. I always said, Cousin Dorothy's family are so strong-willed about everything, I don't mind their sleeping outdoors in bags but I do feel it's an imposition for their guests—of course Gerald's eyesight finally did come back—"

"My dear woman," the General said, "modern scientific methods in the manufacture of—"

Asey slipped away to Sara's side. "Let's hear it," he said, "to the edge of this mob, I'd like to hear that conversation, but I'm tired. When Eloise gets going, she goes, don't she? Seems like she hung onto your words for the one purpose of b'ginnin' to talk just a split second before she thinks you're winding up. Lane has had an awful time with her. He says she's coy."

Aunt Sara grinned. "Odd, but Jeff and Zeh have noticed that too, nuss, too. She set her cap for Weston, did she tell you? For a while last winter, the town was pretty much resigned to losing its bachelor selectman. Oh, dear, there goes the noise! It's beautiful to watch, but I do hate to listen!"

Near the parked cars on the side of the field, they waited and watched the General's display. "What about fire hazard?" Asey asked.

"Oh, everything's been chemically treated within a radius of ten miles, or something," Sara told him during a lull. "By the way, you should have heard our evening broadcast. We were quite good. Upjohn's band outdid themselves, and your friend the soprano was fine. I think she cares more for 'Chloe' than she does for 'Billingsgate Beautiful.' And we had an impromptu amateur contest. At least they claimed it was impromptu, but I am sure it was pre-arranged. And there was a girl, a reporter, who did imitations. She was simply marvelous. Awfully interesting-looking girl. Red hair and freckles. She came over later and we met her. I liked her a lot. You will, too. Er—"

"Sensitive Mayo mind," Asey said. "What happened next?"

"How did you know it happened next? What is this, thought transference?"

"It's the sensitive Mayo mind," Asey said. "Just a vast receptivity—Sara, I know by the way you're going at this that you've got something you shouldn't. What's the story? What did you say that you shouldn't?"

"Well," Sara said, "she told me that the only accommodations she could find were in Provincetown, and so—"

"Sara Leach, did you offer to put her up? Did you? Did you get soft all fall?" Sara, how could you?"

"She's a nice girl."

"Sara, she'll be into everything! And, honest, Sara, I could spank you! You should know better—letting a reporter—a reporter! Oh, God Almighty! Here I worry what Weston'll tell in his jitters, and all that blarney, Eloise, and all the troopers and everything else, and you—the one person I never wasted a second of worry on, you go an' invite reporters in!"

"But she won't cause any trouble, she's—"

"Sara began defensively."

"Listen, news is news! An' furthermore," Asey said, "you'll leave the key of your room outside, because Jeff's goin' to lock you in an' hide the key. Do you understand that?"

Aunt Sara's face became as white as her hair, and she bit her lip until Asey was afraid that it would bleed.

"Oh, Asey, did I—have I been—"

"You did, Sara. I'm sorry to be so impatient an' abrupt, an' I don't mean to bully, but you have gone an' done the silliest thing you could do! What's her name? Can't I find her another place, an' head her off? Ain't there some way out?"

"She charmed Jeff, too," Sara said. "I don't see what we can do, she's already had someone take her luggage—Asey, what did I do? When was—of course it must have been last night. Oh, dear, dear, what shall I do if I'm beginning that again?"

She was more distraught than Asey had ever imagined she could be, and she seemed suddenly to become rather a frail little old lady instead of the erect, brisk person he had always known.

"I'm sorry," Asey said again. "But you look to want out by the swamp in your sleep, an' our shotgun friend was in the vicinity, pretendin' to be a loon. When I found it was you, I near went crazy to think of what might have happened to you. Does it—do you—er don't you want to talk about it?"

"I don't, but I've got to. Let's leave this din'."

Asey helped her into his car. "I've done it since I was a child," Sara said. "No one's been able to do anything about it. It drove mother frantic, and she made me so ashamed of it that I rather preyed on me when I was older. Father took me to doctors, and they figured out that it happened only when I was upset and worried about something, and usually when I was trying to keep a secret. The older I've grown, the fewer secrets I've had, and well—I thought it was all over. This affair must have started me going again. Asey, what shall we do?"

"How You Talk"

"DO LOCKS stop you, or do you shilly out of windows?"

"Locks will do it, and I'll have to tell Jeff. I'll tell him the whole story, I think he suspects most of it. He knows about me, of course. He thinks it's funny. He claims he had to tie me, shortly after we were married, and father'd told me about some railroad bill in the Senate that was a tremendous secret. I've always kept it hidden—you can see why. Billingsgate would love a bit of news like that. The maids know, but mercifully they like me too much to talk. Oh, dear! What can we do about this girl? Her name is Kay Thayer. She's a good sort, really, but—oh, darn this Old Home Week! Darn it!"

"Why Sara Leach, how you talk!"

"I mean it. I've wanted to say for months. Asey, if we try to shunt the girl, she'll get suspicious. And on the other hand, how can she help knowing right there in the house? We'll have to cope with it somehow. Have you any ideas?"

"One," Asey said, "but—oh, Sara, oh, my!"

He waited at the Leach house until after the rest had returned from town, and then he set out for Hell Hollow, where Hamilton was waiting for him.

"This place," Hamilton said, "has my teeth chattering. Asey, never saw anything like it. The way that mist comes out of the swamp, and those mud holes, and the noises—I never heard so many noises in all my life! Look, what sounds like this?"

He opened his mouth and produced something between a moan and a wail and a horse whinnying.

"It sounds like someone in a radio mystery," Asey said, "at the end of a chapter. I think it was a raccoon, though. When's your trooper due?"

"Twelve-thirty. He's a new man, and I hope he can take it. If I had to park here alone until tomorrow morning, I'd go crazy. Honestly, look at those figures! One of 'em fell down ten minutes ago, and do you know what I did? I fell flat on my stomach and drew my gun."

"Honestly, I'd rather spend the night in the morgue alone than sit here with those figures! Look at 'em. Watch 'em sway! And don't," he added, "tell me I'm nervous!"

"I'll confess, Ham, I reached for my gun the first time I seen 'em. Here's your man comin'. Tell him to put his car back of the house where it won't be seen, an' don't tell him how you feel!"

"I won't need it. He'll feel the same way in fifteen minutes."

"What's orders? Stick around and watch and listen?"

"Just about. Land'll relieve him. Tell him we'll come back an' visit with him later. May hearthen him."

From the hollow they returned to Aunt Sara's, where another trooper stood in the shadow of the garage.

"I rigged up that gadget on the foot bridge," he said. "The fellow at the house and I did. Anyone who comes up from the swamp'll get a blank cartridge going off under his feet."

Continued tomorrow.

Horse Sense!

A horse can't pull while kicking, this fact we merely mention.

And he can't kick while pulling, which is our chief contention.

Let's initiate the good horse and lead a life that's fitting.

Just pull an honest load, and then there'll be no time for kicking.

Dinner (ordering)—Bring me a plate of hash.

The waiter walked over to the kitchen elevator. "Gent wants to take a chance," he called down the speaking tube.

Second Customer—I'll have some hash, too.

Waiter (picking up speaking tube again)—Another sport!

Necessity is not only the mother of invention but it is quite often closely related to success.

No matter how ambitious one may be there are days when ambition loosens her hold and the fact that we are or are not a success may or may not seem so important.

But necessity is a slave-driver that holds a steady rein.

Aunt Mary can neither read nor write, nor does she know how old she is. Recently her mistress was telling her of a woman aged 107.

Aunt Mary (speaking up)—Land sakes, honey, dat ain't nuffin! I done specs I's a heap older'n dat. Why child, I kaint members de time when I wasn't alive.

A spunter answering her doorbell encountered a shapely dressed young man with a worldly look and a sample case.

Young Man (beginning instantly)—I represent the Soandso Wool Company. Would you be interested in coarse yarns?

Spinster (breathing fast)—Of course. Tell me a few:

Be True!

Thou must be true thyself, if thou the truth wouldst teach:

Thy soul must overflow, if thou another's soul wouldst reach:

It needs the overflow of heart to give the lips full speech:

Shall truly, and thy thoughts: Speak truly, and each word of truth shall be a fruitful seed. Live truly, and thy life shall be a great and noble creed.

dollars. Can you forgive me? Well, Sailor—That's all right. I poisoned you.

Two lawyers were engaged in a heated argument. Finally one exclaimed:

First Lawyer—Is there any case so low, so utterly shameful and crooked that you would refuse it?

Second Lawyer (pleasantly)—I don't know. What have you been up to now?

And That's What They Get

What wives prefer to see in man if not perfection of the mind.

Of tidy habits, such as can keep chairs and tables well aligned.

The faultless man is but designed to give the female conscience cause.

To grow uneasy and unkind.

For girls like men with lots of flaws.

Read it or not—Oceans occupy 72 per cent of the earth's surface.

Keep stirring. Flies never settle on a running electric fan.

ASHOKAN

Ashokan, March 23—Miss Janet Lyons celebrated her sixth birthday Sunday and started school Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ezra Green visited their brother-in-law, Herman Terbusch, in Sundown, Saturday, where Ezra and Herman had a birthday party. There was music and refreshments.

Mrs. V. R. Merrihew called on Mrs. Martin Gulnac Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hyer called their sister, Mrs. and Mrs. Everett Eckert, in Hunter, and found Mrs. Eckert recovering from a bad fall.

Mr. and Mrs. Burton Christians called on their sister, Mrs. Chester Lyons, and husband, also brother-in-law, Eugene McCafferty, of Elmhurst. Scott Hornbeck of Kingston also called Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Alexander of Mountain Road have a baby girl.

St. Clair Barnes of West Shokan visited his sister, Mrs. Ezra Green, Friday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Brower and son, Clayton, of Kingston, visited their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil R. Merrihew, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. George Weeks of Stone Ridge called on their niece, Mrs. Chester Lyons, and family, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Eckert of Watson Hollow and Mr. and Mrs. William Green of this place called on Mr. and Mrs. Ezra Green Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Haver, Lester Van Kleeck, Olive Shurtler, and Paul Whiteman, and then a later "Independent" movie which failed to set the world afire. Her son Lind was doing little better, and the world was indigo.

Mavis Miller and Lawrence Shurtler paid the Ford Sales and Service at Central Bridge a call Sunday, driving via Catskill, Cairo, Middleburg and Schoharie.

Great excitement prevailed here Sunday when the Woodstock Fire Company with its truck was called here and extinguished a fire which began in the chimney of Earl Elmendorf's home.

Mrs. Viva Ogden assisted Mrs. Chester Lyons Monday.

Joe and Ed Launer of Long Island are at their summer home in Shokan.

Mr. and Mrs. Riley Sanford expect to return to their home in Big Indian Thursday. Mr. Sanford is convalescing.

Mrs. Charles Green spent the afternoon with her sister, Mrs. E. R. Kinney, Friday.

KRUMVILLE

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Every of Whitfield were recent visitors of Luther Merrihew and his sister, Mrs. Hattie Donohue.

Church services next Sunday morning at the Krumville Reformed Church are as follows:

Church school at 10 o'clock, under the direction of the superintendent, Clayton Christians. Morning worship at 11 o'clock, sermon by the pastor, the Rev. William H. Barringer. Subject of sermon: "In the Valley of Service." Subject of sermon for the children: "Jesus and the Birds."

Jesus and the Birds.

Hollywood Sights And Sounds

By Robbin Coons

HOLLYWOOD—Item in the local trade press: "Grace Hayes, the vaudeville, has been signed by Metro to play Mickey Rooney's mama in 'Babes in Arms'."

If a click, she'll go into remakes of former Marie Dressler flickers—opposite Wallace Beery."

Just an item—but what a story lies behind it.

To begin at the happy ending, let's go to a little club out on Ventura boulevard and sit and while the music plays and the dancers dance. And while we're waiting for the floor show, let's look around at the rustic colonial interior, white walls and big open fireplace, cheery as a Christmas card.

Here it is, the show. . . . A tall, stately matron in a silver gown, gardenias at her shoulder, moves into the spotlight and takes the mike. She's a 10 o'clock—close-cropped blue-black hair combed straight back, dark blue eyes a little misty in the glare. She sings in a sure, husky throbbing flow of tone. . . . It's three o'clock in the morning.

She sings on, and then she turns it over to Lind Hayes, her 33-year-old son, who sings and impersonates celebrities, and then Charlie Foy, her ex-husband, and Joe Frisco and other old-timers carry on.

Thirteen weeks ago Grace Hayes was broke. Headliner in the heyday of vaudeville, one-time headliner on Broadway, and a nobody in Hollywood. She had saved in her time, but the 20 crash took care of that. She hadn't been able to do anything in pictures outside of that long-ago "King of Jazz."

Then she rattled off a list of names of big-timers, old and new, who have enlightened her programs. People like Martha Raye, and Ida Lupino, and Ida's mother, Connie Emerald, and Joe Frisco, and Sam Pokram the gurgling pianist, and Charlie Foy, and many more. . . . And Dick Powell, who saw young Lind work and got him work in pictures, and then the old "Independent" movie which, remembered, brought her the new screen test and contract.

Sketched in Brief

(By-The Associated Press)

Paging Jimmy Valentine

Peru, Ind.—James L. Miller, prosecuting attorney, for six years didn't trouble to lock his office safe.

But a new secretary inadvertently locked it when it contained evidence in a forgery trial.

A locksmith worked on it a whole day, gave up in disgust, went away and didn't come back.

The safe is still locked. The forgery suspect is still locked up, too, awaiting a hearing.

Home Remedy

Scranton, Pa.—Charged with possessing a still, Albert Keiper admitted to Federal Judge Albert L. Watson he had a still in his home but said he used it for boiling cherry bark to make cough syrup, not liquor.

"You see, judge," he explained, "I've got 15 children."

He was acquitted.

Quick Response

Milwaukee.—It wasn't news to Deputy Sheriff Ralph Blatz and Andrew Shane when the radio in their squad car blared out: "Squad 3, go to S. 97th street and W. Greenfield avenue. Automobile in the ditch."

Blatz and Shane were crawling out of squad car No. 3 at the very moment. A passing motorist had seen their car in the ditch and telephoned the sheriff's department.

Stamps In The News

Probably the first result of the world-shaking Munich pact of last September of interest to stamp collectors is the new Czechoslovak Republic stamp celebrating the opening of the Slovak parliament at Bratislava.

The agreement, of course, brought about the slicing off chunks of democratic Czechoslovakia by neighbors Germany, Poland, and Hungary. But the slicing wrought significant changes within the country.

On October 8 the name was changed to Czechoslovak Republic, the byproduct was significant for Slovakia had become an autonomous state within a state.

The Slovaks are mostly fiery

Slavic peasants. They are reported less democratic than the neighboring Czechs, because under the Austro-Hungarian Empire their mountainous region was neglected for centuries.

Their new stamp, which was issued by the central Czechoslovak government, shows a castle runs at Bratislava where the new parliament is meeting. The stamp is a reissue of the blue 10-koruna, with the 10kc blocked out by a red overprint of 300 halero, for the new value. Perforation is the same as the old 12½.

Centennial Of Baseball

Postmaster General Farley has announced a new stamp to be issued this year commemorating the centennial of American baseball. The die for the stamp has not been cut yet, so baseball enthusiasts are pressing Farley with designs for the stamp.

Some think it should carry the portrait of some celebrated player such as Christy Mathewson. Senator Mead (D., N. Y.), former baseball pro, wrote to Farley as "one first baseman to another" and suggested it include in its design a ball, bat and glove with a view of a modern baseball diamond, maybe Yankee Stadium.

New Irish Stamp

Eire joined with several other countries on March 1, when it issued a commemorative stamp for the 150th anniversary of the inaugurating of the U. S. Constitution and the installation of Washington as first President.

The stamp depicts the American eagle bearing a shield blazoned with the 13 vertical stripes to represent the original colonies, and with horizontal stripes to represent their unity. In one claw the eagle clutches an olive branch (peace) and in the other arrows (preparedness). On the left is a profile of Washington, and on the right, to balance, a harp.

A translation of the dedicatory inscription is—"The Irish people commemorate the 150th anniversary of the American Constitution." The stamps will be issued in the 2d. (carmine) and 3d. (blue) denominations.

Y.W.C.A. Report Meeting Tonight

The first report dinner for the 1939 budget drive of the Y. W. C. A. will be held this evening at 6:15 o'clock. Mrs. A. Noble Graham is in charge of the program and has announced that the speaker will be Roger Loughran. Mrs. John B. Sterley, chairman of the finance committee, will be in charge of the campaign reports.

The executive committee hopes that all interested in the program, whether workers or not, will feel welcome to come. The program and reports are scheduled for 6:45 o'clock.

Mrs. M. Donald Lane, chairman of the motor corps division of the Y. W. C. A. drive, announces the following workers: Mrs. William Finch, Mrs. Charles Arnold, Mrs. Arthur Colligan, Mrs. Ralph Cooper, Mrs. R. H. Gross, Mrs. Samuel Peyer, Mrs. Mortimer Downer and Mrs. E. W. Pemberton. It is anticipated that having cars available for the workers will greatly facilitate the work.

Additional workers who have been announced are Mrs. Arthur Quimby and Mrs. Walter Joyce, who are listed with Division B.

Mrs. Parker Brinnier, chairman, and Miss Beatrice Elias, who is working on Division C. Miss Margaret Schuetz, chairman.

THIS IS ANCIENT HISTORY In the life of Capt. John Henry Towers, No. 1 naval aviator who's newly named chief of the navy's aeronautics bureau, it was made in 1911 and shows him in a rickety Curtiss pusher plane. During his four-year term, he'll have the rank of rear admiral; he's the first of the naval aviation pioneers to attain such rank.

EYE ON ENGINE has Flight Capt. E. T. G. Te Koller of the Dutch East Indies army, seen at Burbank, Cal., inspecting a new Lockheed 212, all-purpose military plane; a dozen of these have been ordered for the Netherlands' colonies.

A STATE'S RIGHTS are on the program of Alaska Home Rule association now asking, first, full territorial government and then statehood for Alaska. Here's a view at Point Barrow, far north city in the land bought from Russia in 1867.

THE FISH DON'T GET AWAY from these fishing boats at Ketchikan, one port from which Alaska's fishermen go out for the salmon and herring that contribute to a main industry. Alaska's canned fishery products in 1937 were valued at $44,547,769. The Alaska Home Rule association is now agitating for statehood for Alaska, for which U. S. paid Russia $7,200,000.

FOR THAT DERBY DATE Vero and Yolanda (above), a ballroom dance team, are grooming their horse, Vero, which makes this chestnut colt one of the very few derby candidates to have such glamorous sponsorship. Vero, out of Dark Roma by Gino, is one of the 115 three-year-olds listed for the 65th Kentucky derby May 6 at Churchill Downs in Louisville.

ANGLO-AMERICAN ALLIANCE in steel is symbolized in this chummy picture of Britain's crack stream-lined train, the Coronation Scot, and the United States "iron horse," the Royal Blue (right). The London Midland Scottish train, which is on tour in the United States, made several runs between Baltimore and Washington, D. C., to "get the feel" of American rails.

WHEN MARS 'TURNS THE HEAT ON' the U. S. secretary of war and other war officers will be assured of a cool spot in above new war department building planned for Washington, D. C., in the northwest section of city. It'll be air conditioned. This is a drawing of the six-storied first unit, so designed that all rooms above first floor will have direct light.

TVA TRIUMVIRATE posed after their first visit, as a group, to the White House for a talk with the President. Left to right: Former Sen. James Pope of Idaho, a new member; Chairman Harcourt Morgan, and Member David E. Lillenthal.

TENOR OF THE TIMES is followed by Mrs. Laurits Melchior in choosing a lilac-clustered spring bonnet with a tilt. "I doubt it," her operatic husband, a Wagnerian tenor, says, concerning the new hats' "sensible" trend.

A DOUGH PRO! That's what Mrs. Mary Luman is ruled Cleveland food show officials banning her from future cooking contests. A restaurant operator, she won eight prizes with breads and pastries entered under the names of friends.

ANOTHER NAZI DRILL—this one, non military—appeared at the Leipzig fair. It's a "giant robot" which drills into sand and other material to be moved, like a giant borer. Attendants said that 70 tons of sand per hour could find its way through the tube, at right, and into a truck. Note the great teeth with which the drill bites into gravel or sand.

TENNIS WARS of 1938 will find Bobby Riggs (above), he of the famous forehand, at the top. He teamed with Elwood Cooke of Portland, Ore., to win the Bermuda doubles.

—EUROPE IS 'IT' IN THE 1939 SPRING GUESSING GAME: WHAT WILL HITLER DO NEXT?—

WHILE THE NAZI DRIVE HEADS EAST, statesmen remembering that Hitler favors swift "surprise" tactics wonder over the fate of Switzerland, tiny buffer state between Germany and France on the west. Switzerland's inadequate army includes small tanks that chug across rivers bearing soldiers to maneuvers. Early in March Ernst von Weizsaecker of the Berlin foreign office assured France that Germany was not preparing action against the Swiss. But that was before Hitler swallowed Czechoslovakia and the democracies began to say, "Stop Hitler, stop Hitler."

SWISS AIR DEFENSE centers partly on such anti-aircraft units as this, with one soldier holding the gun. Flights over Switzerland might be fast, save for the Alps with their great mountain peaks. In this little country are 2,924,314 German-speaking persons who may be fully aware of Hitler's cherished hope to bring all Germans into the Third Reich.

WOMAN'S WIT may have to cope with Nazi strategy. This is Queen Wilhelmina to whom went assurance in February that Hitler has only peaceful intentions toward Holland.

A NAZI NEIGHBOR, Holland, watches anxiously the Fuehrer's rapid expansion eastward, and notes that the 1918 Germany measured 208,760 square miles and that the 1939 Germany of Hitler measures 244,263 square miles. This is a typical view of Amsterdam fishermen going to work. Holland's dairy products and tulips are famous.

FACING THE FUTURE TOGETHER

President Albert Lebrun of France rides with smiling King George VI of England (right) after arriving in London for a three-day state visit which was significant because it coincided with increasing British-French collaboration in the face of German expansion. This picture was radioed to the United States from London.

Rome to New York In 15 Hours Seen

Sikorsky Predicts Speedy Airplane Service.

NEW YORK.—Flights from New York to Rome in 15 hours, around the world junkies in a week, and hops to the North pole in two or three days in "flying yachts" within 10 years were predicted by Igor Sikorsky, noted American plane designer.

"At the very latest by 1940," said Sikorsky, "there will be regular passenger flights across the Atlantic."

The giant flying boats, he said, will carry 80 to 100 persons, have six motors of 2,500 horsepower each and fly at 350 to 400 kilometers an hour. They will carry 30 tons of gasoline.

"The idea of having intermediate stops at 'floating islands' must be abandoned. They only cause loss of time. The flight must be accomplished in one hop, let us say, from New York to Brest, France."

"The crossing will be made at a height of three or four thousand kilometers to eliminate the necessity of compression cabins. It is obvious why a large machine is needed. The space is increased, the passengers have more room and on a long trip there is need of movement and freedom."

Sikorsky declared the future of aviation lies in the large ships. "They are safer and speedier than the small ones," he said.

"I believe that the pioneering era of aviation is well over. It was finished for good with the flight of Colonel Lindbergh across the Atlantic. The Lindbergh flight has had an enormous influence on the development of transcontinental aviation."

"On the basis of that flight and the experience of others who have followed him it is now possible to inaugurate regular transatlantic service," the plane designer said.

With regular passenger service across the Atlantic in 1939, Sikorsky said, "commercial aviation reaches its full maturity."

Sikorsky, while conceding that sub-sonic flying will be utilized, doubted if the bulk of commercial flying would be on this level because of lack of information of "complications which might be encountered" in that region.

Tradition and Modernism

Combined in New Houses

NEW YORK.—American home-builders are striking a happy medium between staid traditional and the "nudist" type of ultra-modern architecture by swinging more strongly than ever to traditional forms, but with modern treatments, says Architect Arthur E. Allen.

"Colonial, American-looking homes which are true to our heritage and traditions can be and are being constructed without sacrificing the spaciousness and light which constitute a chief virtue of modernistic architecture," says Allen, who has been the architect for more than 18,000 homes throughout the nation in the last 11 years. "The newer homes of Georgian design have picked up the outstanding good points of the modern trend, notably the large window areas. They are made bright and cheery inside, in contrast to the colonial houses of our forefathers, through use of plentiful windows, modern interior planning, generous use of wall mirrors and smart selection of furnishings."

Architects and home-buyers are shunning extreme modern styles to such an extent, Allen said, that modernistic styles are actually barred in some planned suburban communities.

Advice on Nose Blowing

Vigorous nose blowing is "all wrong. The nose should be blown gently at all times, regardless of desire or provocation, according to the Journal of the American Medical Association. It is immaterial, it declared, whether one nostril is held open at a time. The operation should be gentle, the Journal said, because if too much pressure is used the secretions carrying germs may be forced into the sinuses and establish sites of infection."

BRITISH ROYALTY GREETS LEBRUNS

President Albert Lebrun of France and Mme. Lebrun (at right) are shown in this radiophoto as they arrived at Victoria Station, London, to make a three-day state visit, and were welcomed by King George and Queen Elizabeth of England, at left. The visit of the Lebruns took on added significance, coming as it did at a time when England and France were collaborating in efforts to check Hitler's march through Europe.

Lenten Service at Comforter Church

The annual Lenten Prayer Service, sponsored by the Women's Missionary Society of the Reformed Church of the Comforter will be held Friday, March 24, at 3 o'clock in the Comforter Church auditorium on Wynkoop Place.

The topic to be considered at this service is "Prayer," and the leader will be Mrs. Rufus D. Kelder.

An invitation is extended to all women, whether they are members of a missionary society or not, to attend this service. Members of the First Dutch Reformed and Fair Street societies will be present.

Northern Mammal Lived In Oregon, Writer Says

Scientists say that one of the proboscidean families that lived in Oregon was the northern mammoth, a creature that must have been "scarcely out of place, even in the strange pleistocene world" of which primeval Oregon was a part, declares an authority in the Portland Oregonian.

The Columbian elephants, mighty creatures that roamed in stature even the largest elephants of the present, lived in old Oregon in great herds, judging from the abundance of their fossils.

Also on the Oregon ranges, probably long before the mammoth and Columbian elephant appeared, was huge Elephas imperator, remains of which have been found at Fossil Lake and in the La Grande country. Imperator was an enormous creature, the largest of all elephants and probably the most ponderous animal ever to thunder over the pleistocene plains of Oregon. These animals were 12½ feet at the shoulder.

The mammoth was apparently represented in Oregon by two species. One of these was so peculiar to the Oregon country, that it was named Mammut oregonense. Mammoth remains have been found in many parts of the state, especially in the coast counties and in the Willamette valley.

Nine nations will send navy vessels to anchor off Treasure Island, site of the California World Fair.

Springlike Weather? Just Take a Look at Last Year

Spring was in the air definitely this time last year, according to temperature records in the city engineer's office at the city hall.

The mercury on March 22 a year ago showed a low of 42 and a high of 80 for the day, while the low this morning was 19 degrees. The low this year for yesterday, the first day of spring was 22 degrees and the high 36, which seems to prove that winter is lingering a bit longer over the official deadline this year.

Man About Manhattan

By George Tucker

NEW YORK—More and more the men who guide orchestras are being identified by the instruments they themselves play, so that now it is practically impossible to dial into any of the big stations without hearing such announcements as, "This has been a half-hour's interlude with Ernie Holst, His Violin, and His orchestra," or "The music of Eddy Duchin, His Piano, and His orchestra has come to you through the courtesy of Red Dog cornflakes," or "We take you now to the Melody Rendezvous where Tommy Dorsey, His Trombone, and His orchestra anticipate your pleasure."

This is very good selling. Who began it I don't know, but in recent weeks more and more orchestras have been using this style of identification through the announcers on the networks. They drum it into your brain, and after several evenings of the constant repetition, whether you like it or are annoyed by it, you go away repeating those phrases to yourself. You'll be waiting for a subway when suddenly this phrase will run through your brain: "You have been listening to 30 minutes of dancing music of Artie Shaw, His Clarinet, and His orchestra." Or you'll be waiting for your change in a restaurant when, without warning, you'll be saying to yourself, "Ladies and gentlemen, Jimmy Dorsey, His Saxophone, and His orchestra is on the air."

WHEN I say you'll be doing this, why of course I mean myself. I'm the one who does queer things like that. And so if I ever walk up to you and introduce myself, don't

FRANCE CALLS UP MORE TROOPS

An unannounced number of reserve troops were called to the colors in France soon after enactment of new decrees authorizing the government to strengthen the national defense and speed French armament. At once the reservists began boarding trains toward the northwest, where lies the Maginot Line. Scenes such as this may become common as the defense program continues. These troops are marching in the Champs-Elysees, Paris.

Assault, Battery Action Settled

After the plaintiff had rested his case and several witnesses had been called by the defense in the assault and battery action brought by William G. Brennan against John J. McCabe, the case was settled after the noon recess Tuesday.

Robert Ackerman Shot by Chapman

"That's too bad," I said. "I kept on walking and something made me feel that I should turn around."

"As I did so, I saw Chapman had stepped up with the gun to my back."

"He fired one shot. I ran as far as my father's store and fell down."

Asked by District Attorney Schwartz: "Did you know Chapman?" the youth replied: "I saw him before. I never knew him to speak to."

Taking up the story of the shooting, Officer Costa said that when he heard the shots, he went to the corner of Mesier and South avenues, where he saw a crowd of people.

"I saw a fellow in the road (Chapman), and holding a gun up to his forehead. I called an ambulance, and then I saw a crowd on South avenue."

Ladies' Night Was 'Most Successful'

With an attendance numbering almost 50 couples, the annual Ladies' Night of the Reformed Church of the Comforter Men's Club was deemed "most successful" by Charles O. Keise, president of the organization.

The auditorium of the church hall was well filled Tuesday evening as the regular but brief session of the club started, and by the time Chairman Al Reese was ready to announce the first part of the entertainment the gathering had almost reached the half-century mark.

The program, which was well received by the audience, included music by the Hawaiian group, led by Gordon Craig, Jr., selections by the Kingston Kuts-Ups, tap dancing by the DeGriff children, trumpet duets by Miss Stillworth and Master Rossi, and two groups of tenor solos by Gerald D. Holt of Beacon, winner of the 1931 Atlantic-Kent radio audition.

Refreshments were served in the dining room of the hall at the close of the evening's program.

Parents and teachers should be dictators if they wish the children to grow into democratic citizens, child specialists say.

County Firemen to Hold Convention On July 14 and 15

The March meeting of the Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association was held Tuesday night at the Clinton Ford in Rosendale with the Tillson Department entertaining.

Reports were made by the various committees to President Adam Ulrich of Walkkill and the dates for the annual convention were set, July 14 and 15, at Walkkill.

The committee in charge reported on progress for formation of the Esopus and Accord fire districts. A request came from Bloomingburg concerning a district there.

Endorsement was made on the legislative program as framed by the State Volunteer Fire Association, and the committee on laws was instructed to inform Ulster county's two legislative representatives, Senator A. H. Wicks and Assemblyman J. Edward Conway of this action.

John Heaney of Kingston was appointed head of the committee to furnish entertainment at the firemen's home in Hudson on the first Sunday in June.

The Woodstock Fire Department asked for the privilege of entertaining the Ulster County Association on the next open date for its meeting.

Concert Series To Offer Musical Treat

The members of the Cooperative Concert Association have in store one of the greatest musical treats that has ever been afforded the music loving public of this community in the appearance of the Cleveland Orchestra composed of some 80 musicians all of whom are artists with Dr. Artur Rodzinski as conductor.

The Cleveland Orchestra, composed of recognized artists of unusual merit, has marched ahead with the years to general acceptance today as one of the really great orchestras of the nation. No little of this acceptance is due to the fact that Rodzinski unites in himself all of the qualities essential to an orchestra leader of the finest type: profound musical knowledge, masterful baton technique, and a high capacity for the projection of emotional intensity.

Those who will hear the concert Sunday afternoon, March 26, at 2:30 o'clock at the municipal auditorium will be indeed fortunate in that the great conductor has chosen for the afternoon's symphony, Tchaikovsky's Symphony No. 5, E minor, Op. 64. The Springfield Daily News had this to say of Rodzinski's conducting of this symphony:

"His symphony has it been the privilege of local musicians to hear such magnificent reading of the Tchaikovsky Fifth Symphony in E minor. Its vitality was its chief attribute and this vitality was maintained both by the strings as well as by the brasses. Whether it was in this animated opening movement, in the lovely line of the andante cantabile, or in the imposing and frenzied climax, Dr. Rodzinski was successful in drawing the last full measure of meaning from the score."

All members of the Cooperative Concert Association are asked to look up their tickets for this last concert as no one will be admitted to the auditorium without presenting his or her ticket.

The following is the full program:

Overture to Tannhauser ..... Wagner
Symphony No. 5, E. minor, Op. 64 ..... Tchaikovsky
Andante-allegro con anima
Andante cantabile con alcuna licenza
Valse, allegro moderato
Finale andante maestoso-allegro-allegro vivace
INTERMISSION
Two Nocturnes ..... Debussy
Clouds-Festivals ..... Debussy
Suite from the ballet, The Fire Bird ..... Stravinsky
Introduction-the Fire Bird and her dance
Dance of the Princesses
Infernal dance of the Katchel
Berceuse
Finale

West Point Spring Recitals

The dates of the spring series of organ recitals in the cadet chapel of the United States Military Academy, West Point, are announced as follows: April 2, 3 p. m., April 23, 2:30 p. m., (guest organ recital), May 7, 3:30 p. m., D. S. T.

There will also be a recital on the Sunday afternoon preceding graduation in June.

With 13,420 separate speaking pipes, exclusive of harp, celesta, chimes, etc., the cadet chapel organ has become the largest church organ in the western hemisphere, and assuredly one of the finest in the world. The recitals will be given by Frederick C. Mayer, organist and choirmaster of the military academy, with the exception of April 23, which will be played by Prof. Fritz Heilmann. These recitals are open to the public without charge, and music lovers are invited to attend. Parking of cars in the vicinity of the chapel is permitted for these events.

St. Patrick's Eve Party

Religious Drama At Redeemer Lutheran

The Lutheran Church of the Redeemer will present a one-act religious drama Sunday evening, at 7:45 o'clock.

The play, written originally in French by Francois Coppee and translated by Mary Aldis, is entitled, "The Lord's Prayer." The setting is in the home of a priest at the time of the French Revolution. The theme has to do with the conflict of emotions within the heart of a French woman, who sees her brother, a priest, shot down by the rebel forces. Later when a rebel soldier seeks refuge in her home, she ponders the problem as to whether she should expose him and so gain vengeance for her brother's death or whether she should shield him in the spirit of forgiveness. "The Lord's Prayer" is beautifully impressive. It is a royalty play and will be presented by permission of the Walter H. Baker Company of Boston.

The cast of characters is as follows:

Mademoiselle Rose ..... Helen Schoonmaker
Zelee (her housekeeper) ..... Justine Rowe
Mere Blanche (a neighbor) ..... Virginia Luedtke
The Cure ..... John McCullough
Jacques Le Roux ..... Dewey Hornbeck

An Officer ..... Cecil Burger
The play is being directed by the Rev. Russell S. Gaenzle, pastor of the church. Properties are in charge of Richard Bailey, Donald Gurnear, Frank Lawatsch and Paul Mohr. The young people of the Lutheran League will be responsible for the worship service. Those participating are: Ushers, Ernest Ryan, Otto Schaller, Gerow Sleight, John Rowland; service leader, Faith McCullen; prayer, Miriam Hotelling; Scripture lesson, Doris Purvis; programs, Adele Schwartz and Shirley Smith. The public is cordially invited to attend this service.

Inventors Studied By Lowell Club

Two early 19th century inventors of the Hall of Fame, were studied at the meeting of Lowell Club held Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. M. S. Conklin on Broadway.

Mrs. William Delaplane presented a paper on Samuel F. B. Morse and Robert Fulton, both of whom perfected inventions that aided in the commercial life of the period.

An account of Elias Howe, inventor of the sewing machine, and William T. G. Norton, the Boston dentist who discovered ether, was given by Mrs. A. H. Van Buren.

Preceding the afternoon's discussion, a short business meeting was held at which time the program for the next year was discussed and topics distributed among the members. The club will study the states of the union, with special emphasis on their history and legend.

A nominating committee was also appointed, consisting of Mrs. William Delaplane, Mrs. Frederick Snyder and Mrs. William Fessenden.

At the conclusion of the program the hostess served tea with Miss May Quimby, the president, presiding at the tea table. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Oscar Edwards, 356 Albany avenue.

Mortgage Moratorium Not New

The mortgage moratorium, which is more or less generally regarded as a new device for the relief of the oppressed in time of widespread economic disturbance, is not new at all. The ancients knew about it. It was employed about 4,133 years ago, to bring economic protection to people who, because of conditions over which they had no control, could not meet their obligations. The following quotation, which is found in the Code of Hammurabi (Harpur's Second Edition—1904), is offered as proof the moratorium is not new: "If a man owe a debt and Adad (the storm god) inundates his field and carry away the produce, or through lack of water, grain have not grown in the field, in that year he shall not make any return to the creditor, he shall alter his contract-tablet and he shall not pay the interest for that year."

Joan Crawford Outlines Reason for Divorce Case

Hollywood, Calif., March 22 (AP)—Her arrangements for a divorce from Franchot Tone completed, Joan Crawford planned to fly to New York either today or tomorrow, see a few Broadway shows and sail Sunday for South America.

She pictured Tone, now appearing on the New York stage, as a husband more interested in social affairs than success as a film actor, as she gave a deposition yesterday to be read in court when her divorce plea comes up for hearing next Tuesday.

The former department store clerk who rose to film stardom said she told Tone before they were married in 1935, that the business of becoming and holding one's place as screen star left time for little else.

In spite of this warning, she said, Tone would want to go out to a party after she had worked 12 hours under hot studio lights and returned home dead tired but faced with additional tasks of reading scripts, answering fan bring her military production to equality with that of her totalitarian neighbors.

The nations of southeast Europe had troops on virtually every border fearful of developments. Rumania in particular kept a watchful eye on her Hungarian and Bulgarian frontiers.

News of Memel's return to Germany caused rejoicing in the Nazi-ruled free city of Danzig, to which German sympathizers hoped Hitler would turn next. Danzig, at the mouth of the Polish corridor to the Baltic, is nominally a free city but has a Nazi local government.

Millard Davis Says Some Producers Misled by Dealers

Millard Davis, a former Assemblyman, and an active member of the Dairyman's League, a director for District 5, said this morning that there was nothing to add to what had already been published in The Freeman regarding the milk situation.

Questioned as to a published statement to the effect that Ulster farmers are hurting the whole milk industry and "just won't co-operate" with the other producers; further that "if they would come along we wouldn't have all this trouble," the former Assemblyman did not care to make a statement which might be taken as provocative of controversy, but he did leave the impression that by far too much blame was being placed on producers from this county for the failure to win a renewal of the voided milk contracts.

Mr. Davis said that the number of Ulster county producers who did not cooperate with the organized majority was comparatively few, and he added, it was the dealers more than the dairymen who were responsible for their action.

He emphasized the fact that "we have no hard feelings against those producers who held out. We feel that they were misled as to the ultimate results of their action, that they were misled by the dealers."

"We are hoping," said Mr. Davis, "with the aid of these producers as well as all others to work out a plan which will result in cooperative effort on the part of the dairymen to maintain milk prices at a satisfactory level."

Incidentally, Mr. Davis intimated that the report that he had addressed a meeting in Dutchess county Monday night was like the famous report of Mark Twain's death, "greatly exaggerated." He said that he had not attended any meeting in Dutchess county and, to the best of his recollection, it was a number of years since he had spoken at a meeting there.

Mr. Davis said he had received no notice of a meeting of the recently formed Ulster county committee, of which John L. Schoonmaker is chairman, but that the committee probably would meet shortly to consider plans for carrying on the work of fully informing the dairymen as to just what the situation is and to try to secure their cooperation for better times in the industry.

Osborne Warns On Conservation

York state have ceased absolutely for the first time in many years.

Program Abandoned

"I would also point out that fiscal exigencies," said Commissioner Osborne, "have brought about the virtual abandonment of the enlarged reforestation program. This is the more tragic in that this program has been regarded as a fundamental state policy, as a program combining at least a partial solution of the problems of marginal farm lands, flood control and soil conservation and the basic importance of all these is being increasingly recognized. I would point out, moreover, that among practically all the activities of the state the reforestation program over a term of years is one of the few if it is not actually the one which is definitely and directly self-liquidating or nearly so from a cash point of view."

"Most if not all of the money invested in the planting of trees for a future timber crop is coming back some day into the state treasury. It is a long term investment, but still it is an investment rather than an expenditure and from a cash point of view there are few items in the state budget of which that can be said."

State Leads in Parks

"So far as the park recreational angle of conservation is concerned, New York is so far ahead of other states that there is little chance of our being overtaken for many years. The Catskill and Adirondack Preserves with their free public campsites and trails and shelters in addition to the 70 regular state parks including such astounding developments as Jones Beach and Bear Mountain—constitute without any question the finest park system in any state in the Union or in the world for that matter. While it is not like the division of fish and game which is wholly self-supporting, the park system is partly so."

"In still another matter we in New York have no particular reason to be proud. We have a wonderful wealth of buildings and places of historic and artistic interest. No people can be totally civilized which is not deeply and keenly aware of its historic and cultural roots. There has never been any long range, comprehensive policy laid down as to State acquisition of historic places and sites and their subsequent management. The few that have come under the State's care are a heterogeneous collection. Some good and some unimportant; some suitable for State ownership and some utterly unsuitable. There is an obvious need for a survey of these resources before further destruction of them occurs and for an integral long range policy based on such a survey."

Our Greatest Asset

Our wildlife resources, Commissioner Osborne pointed out, provide us with our greatest recreational asset and whatever work in behalf of fish and game is done in this state is financed by the hunters and anglers and trappers themselves; there is no charge on general state funds even though it is perfectly clear that the recreational benefits which have their basis in our wildlife resources promote the general welfare.

"New York has been among the leaders in wildlife particularly in regard to scientific research—and is a scientific research alone which can solve most of the fundamental problems which we face."

"When I say that New York is among the leading states in this field, I do not mean to say that all sorts of fishing and hunting are better here. After all, we are the most populous and the greatest industrial state in the union and one of the largest agricultural states. These are factors which inevitably work against good hunting and fishing. And also it must not be forgotten that the average contribution of the individual sportsman to the state's effort in behalf of wildlife is considerably less in New York than in any other northeastern state, save Vermont."

Natural Advantages

"Fortunately, we have some offsetting natural advantages. And the records show that the total of fish and game of all kinds stands up astonishingly well from year to year. Without being preeminent in any way, we still have fair sport along a great variety of lines. In any one line we may be surpassed by several states; but in the combined variety and totality of the fishing and hunting which this state affords, there are few states that can surpass us."

"And here I want to say a word about the value of wildlife not only as a recreational asset but as an economic asset. What the total intrinsic cash or market value of all the wildlife in the state amounts to we can only guess at. But we have figures which indicate that the total harvest of wildlife each year has an intrinsic market value of at least $4,000,000. Capitalize that on a four per cent basis and it means that the total value of our wildlife resources is at least $100,000,000. This leaves out of consideration the recreational value. It also leaves out of consideration the business turnover from sporting goods stores, boat livers, hotels, filling stations, etc., which rise directly from hunting and fishing. Hunting and fishing are responsible for a substantial item in the economic life of the state."

"There are few recreations that bring in a material return to those who indulge in them. Golf, tennis, skiing—all of them cost money. There is no tangible return. Hunting and fishing also cost something—depending largely on what you want to pay for your gear—but, as a partial return, a good many million meals are provided for themselves and their families by the anglers and hunters of New York state. Nor does this take into consideration the very considerable income from the trapping industry."

"An asset with these advantages and which furnishes such returns, recreational and economic, can no longer properly be considered merely in the class of a toy for grown-up children—as a government utility. It should be cherished and provided for and carefully and scientifically managed unless the state in the future is going to be poorer—poorer socially and poorer materially."

"If we can but keep our hunters and fishermen informed of the latest facts and the most desirable ways of making two pheasants grow where one lived today, I do not fear for adequate support for the wildlife program or for the results which will flow from it. It is this feeling that has prompted our efforts to establish District Wildlife Managers, whose functions would be both to keep the sportsmen informed and to assist organized wildlife conservationists to help themselves in the raising of fish and game and in the planting and maintaining of the necessary food and cover for it. With our wildlife program well rooted in facts, carefully planned, and supported by an active and informed public opinion, I predict a better future for you who are making wise use of our natural resources."

At the conclusion of Commissioner Osborne's talk there was a question period after which motion picture of conservation work were shown.

Governor Declines to Recommend Inquiry

Albany, N. Y., March 22 (AP)—Governor Lehman declined today to recommend a legislative inquiry of the Brooklyn judiciary as requested by the city affairs committee of New York.

Expressing deep faith "in the integrity of the judiciary" the governor referred the committee, which asked the inquiry March 17, to John H. Amen, a special prosecutor now investigating all phases of law enforcement in Kings county.

"If there are any judges who have betrayed the public trust, there are ample means already at hand to punish the offenders," the governor wrote Bishop Francis J. McConnell, chairman of the committee.

"Were one to accept your reasoning that all judges should be investigated, you would similarly have to place every district attorney throughout the state under legislative investigation because two or three may have been derelict in their duties; you would have to place every policeman throughout the state under legislative investigation because a few policemen and police officers may have been derelict in their duties."

The committee, in asking the inquiry, cited "rumors" it said affected the integrity of the Brooklyn judiciary. No charges were filed.

Proposal Limiting President's Powers Struck From Bill

Washington, March 22 (AP)—Administration forces struck from the government reorganization bill today an amendment curtailing presidential powers to reshuffle federal bureaus.

The amendment was eliminated by a vote of 46 to 44. It had been inserted yesterday by a vote of 46 to 43.

Republicans and many anti-administration Democrats favored the amendment and administration leaders fought it vigorously.

The vote striking out the amendment came shortly after the Senate had voted 46 to 44 to reconsider its action yesterday approving the proposal.

The fight, one of the hottest in Congress since the House shelved a reorganization bill last spring, centered on an amendment by Senator Wheeler (D., Mont.), who led the successful fight on the President's court bill in 1937.

Under his amendment, the President could issue executive orders reorganizing, consolidating or abolishing most government agencies, but the orders would not become effective until approved by both Houses of Congress. The orders could not be debated more than 10 days in each chamber.
